Have you ever thought about running for local public office but do not know what is involved, how to get the process started, where to go for information, how to put together a campaign, or what are the questions you should be asking yourself and your family before making the decision to run for public office?

Join the College of DuPage's Political Science Department, the CAC, and elected officials to learn about the questions above, the nuts and bolts of running for public office, and more.
